Words and Music: Robin Mann

Verse 1

When easy answers come
To questions why
We look for God to hear us
There's no reply
In front or close behind me,
You're never seen
If I could ever find You
What would You say or mean?

Verse 2

Disaster strikes again
We ask You why
Why don't You ever answer
Before we die?
Rich people have the power,
Live long and well
Their children play in safety,
They hear no tolling bell

Verse 3

O God of every space,
My heart it cries
For when I start to question
You terrify
The darkness weighs upon me,
It holds me down
Your thoughts are way beyond me
And silent is Your sound

About Easy Answers

Turn up the questions! Mysteries, puzzles, frustrations — let's talk to God about them.

A very not-obvious song for an NCYC, but I figure it's a great chance to ask serious questions about life, faith and God, a place for some hard answers. The book of Job has lots of questions. Most of them go unanswered. These words grew out of Chapters 22 & 23, but they could have come from many places.
